Wallace Vows to Keep Out All Negroes

By DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The case of the federal government vs. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace comes up today in U.S. District Court. There were indications that come what may, Wallace will go through with his plan to try to keep Negroes out of the white University of Alabama.

No one expected the fiery segregationist governor to be present for the legal proceedings. He said on a national television program Sunday that he would send counsel to present his defense of his stand-in-the-door policy against integration.

The Justice Department asked U.S. Dist. Judge Seymour H. Lynne for an injunction barring Wallace from interfering with an earlier court order directing the university system to enroll two Negroes.

Repeating his vow to stand in the university doors to keep Negroes out, Wallace told interviewers on NBC television's "Meet the Press" that his defiance would "test in the courts the validity of this order involving our school system."

The issue, he said, is whether Alabama may run its schools as it has or must submit to federal government operation of the schools.

He said repeatedly that violence would not be tolerated at the university, but said it remains to be seen whether federal troops will be needed to get two Negroes into the university system next week.

The governor said he has appealed to the citizens of Alabama to stay away from the campus. "Absolute law will prevail," he said. "We will not tolerate mob action."

While Wallace talked, hundreds of white and Negro pickets marched outside. Many chanted "Wallace must go" and "Down with Wallace." The pickets, however, were outnumbered by policemen, who threw up massive security measures.

There were these major developments elsewhere:
—In Jackson, Miss., scene of mass arrests of pro-integration demonstrators last week, the Sab bath was quiet.

—Picketing continued at Tallahassee, Fla., where Negroes are seeking desegregation of two white movie theaters.

—After an eight-day truce, racial demonstrations resumed one day night in Greensboro, N.C. About 200 Negroes marched silently through the downtown streets.

Emmet's Arkla Village Plans to Hold Annual Roundup and Horse Show on June 22-23

U.S. Recognizes Haiti's New Rule

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced today it will resume normal diplomatic relations with the Haitian regime of Dictator Francois Duvalier.

Normal diplomatic dealings with the Haitian government were suspended following Duvalier's retention of office beyond May 15, when, in the U.S. view, his constitutional term expired.

State Department authorities made plain today that the United States still does not like the Haitian strongman.

But they said he appears to be continuing in control and that it is in the best interests of the United States to resume normal diplomatic relations with his government.

Legislature's Race Laws Are Ruled Illegal

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional today four 1958 state laws that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People contended were drawn up to suppress its activity.

Justice Jim Johnson and special justice Boyd Tackett of Texarkana disagreed in a 5-2 decision. Tackett said in a dissenting opinion that the state court was joining the "recklessness" of the U.S. Supreme Court by striking down Act 12, 13, 14 and 16 of 1958.

Act 12 empowered county judges to require certain organizations to furnish the county with requested information on their activities involving public schools.

Act 13 empowered the attorney general to seize files, records and correspondence of certain organizations.

Act 14 defined barratry and

GOP Wants Review of Fgn. Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders called on administration officials today for a clear and concise review in Congress of President Kennedy's foreign policies.

The Senate-House GOP leadership conference, headed by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, said in a statement that it wants to support a bipartisan approach to international problems. But members said they don't know which policies the administration is following.

"The concept of bipartisan support for foreign policy can only be effective when the supporters know what policy they are asked to support," the Republican leaders said.

"We find we are not alone in our uncertainty. A number of Democratic senators have been expressing their doubts also in recent weeks. Major publications likewise have raised questions in their news and editorial comment."

"We suggest that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and the House Committee on Foreign Affairs invite the appropriate officials of the executive branch to appear before those committees for a clear and concise review of foreign policy."

No Paper Drive Until October

The Hope Band Boosters will not collect scrap paper again until October 1963.

The paper cannot be stored at the Coliseum since it will be in use for the pony sale, recreation day, horse show, fair, and other events. Southland Farms contributed trucks for four loads of paper. A service worth more than $120.00 to take the paper to Elk Roofing Company in Stephens. The first two loads brought $212.24 and the second two should bring a comparable amount.

Haskell Jones, project chairman for the Band Boosters, wishes to thank those persons who contributed their paper and magazines, the stores who gave cardboard boxes and Southland Farms for the trucks. 12 boys of the Student Council helped load and unload the 2nd loads when enough band boys were not available. An announcement will be made in September of future plans on this project.

The Indian chief arrived from Williamsburg, Va., where he spent the night.

School Transfer Law Invalid, Court Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court struck down today two public school transfer plans in Tennessee that allow pupils to switch out of schools where their race is in the minority.

The plans, used in Knoxville and Davidson County, were challenged by counsel for Negro students as efforts to perpetuate racial segregation in public education. Nashville, the Tennessee state capital, is in Davidson county but the city and county have separate school systems. Knoxville is in Knox County.

Justice Clark delivered the unanimous decision.

Attorneys for Negro students said the transfer plans as a practical matter restrict Negroes to all-Negro schools while permitting white children in a largely Negro area to transfer to other schools solely on the basis of race.

But counsel for the Knoxville and Davidson County School boards argued before the high court that there was no evidence the plans are an evasive scheme to continue segregation. They said school board officials were trying their hardest to solve integration problems.

Clark declared for the court that "the transfer plans (in the Tennessee cases) promote discrimination and are therefore invalid."

"The transfer provisions here," Clark said, "cannot be deemed to be reasonably designed to meet legitimate local problems, and therefore do not meet the requirements of Brown."

By "Brown," Clark was referring to the Supreme Court's 1954 and 1955 decisions in the public school racial cases.

The formal titles of the 1954 and 1955 cases were "Brown vs. Board of Education."

Pope Growing Weaker, Now Near Death

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII clung stubbornly to life today, defying all medical predictions. But his doctors announced his condition was slowly, steadily worsening.

The 81-year-old pontiff survived another crisis Sunday night yet another early today. Since Friday his doctors have said each day would probably be his last.

Bulletin

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican press office announced today Pope John XXIII is dead.

The Pope's stout heart gave up after a long and dramatic duel with death in which his resistance confounded all medical expectations.

The 81-year-old pontiff, called "pope of unity and peace," had described himself as serenely ready, "going sweetly toward the end."

The final illness was caused by a stomach tumor, which brought persistent hemorrhaging and was complicated near the end by peritonitis, an inflammation of the lining of the abdominal cavity.

The supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church succumbed at 7:49 p.m.—1:49 p.m. EST—the announcement said.

The first medical bulletin of the day reported the Pope's pulse beat had eased from a high of 140 beats early this morning to a steady 130. His hold on life was attributed to the "perfect integrity" of his heart and circulatory system and his "exceptional robustness."

The bulletin, issued at 9 a.m.—3 a.m. EST—said:

"The perfect integrity of the cardio-circulatory system and the exceptional robustness of the Holy Father maintain his physical condition of elevated resistance in which the worsening although steady, is slow."

"In the past 12 hours there have frequently been periods of loss of consciousness and failure to react to stimulants."

"His body temperature continues to remain high. Administration of oxygen and the presence of adequate breathing has permitted the conservation of a sufficient oxygenation. His arterial pressure at 8 a.m. was 115 and his pulse had a beat of 130 with a steady rhythm."

Death almost came at sunset Pentecost Sunday when he suffered an alarming crisis. It brought a Vatican radio plea to the world for prayer. Again his heart pulled him through.

Through the early hours today the Vatican issued a series of statements saying that the agony was continuing slowly, the Pope's life was ebbing there was nothing to do but wait.

The Vatican said the Pope's resistance to death had defied every medical expectation.

At 6:40 a.m.—12:40 a.m. EST—THE Vatican press office announced that he had suffered still another crisis—but again had pulled through. The radio said the crisis seemed for a moment to have ended his life but he rallied once more, and the slow course of his suffering continued.

The statement said his fever reached 104 degrees Fahrenheit and his pulse had increased to 140 beats a minute.

At 7:07 a.m.—1:07 a.m. EST—the Vatican radio announced that the Pope lived through the night pain and had been holding a cross to his chest for more than four hours.

Consciousness came and went as the Pope lived through the night but most of the time he was in a coma.

Only loss of consciousness eased Pope John's pain, the radio said. "When he can," said the announcement, "he concentrates on prayer."

Mass was celebrated again early this morning in the room next to the Pope's bedroom. It was dedicated to his expressed wish that his life be a sacrifice for his church, his Ecumenical Council and mankind.

THE DOCTOR'S STRANGE SECRET

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

And just then a murmur, no more than a sigh really, rippled across the room. A door beyond our rail had opened, and Smokey was walking into the courtroom, accompanied by a uniformed man who took a chair near the door. It was the man who had summoned Keyes. I watched Smokey, my heart turning over.

He walked steadily to the table spoke to Keyes, and sat down on the far side of Dick Hinton. His suit was well pressed—dark—his shirt was snowy. A bruise showed purple on his lower jaw, and he still had a strip of tape on his forehead. His scarred cheek was turned away from me. In contrast to his poise, Keyes looked very young, and vulnerable; his eyes were enormous. He would never be able to achieve Smokey's graveness. Attentive to what Dick was saying to him, Smokey's face was almost wooden in its impassivity. I looked at him, and away again. I loved that man. But he didn't love me—or need me.

Lovey reached for my hand and I held hers warmly. The girl's face was a mixture of emotions. She watched her father, she wanted to be brave—and grown up. I could only guess how I looked. Beyond Lovey, Aunt Bean was in a dither, and showed it. She kept talking to herself, and shaking her head so that her cheeks trembled. Since early that morning, she had been the most keyed-up one of us all.

She was up first, her hat on, and over to the big house before the rest of us were ready for breakfast. She vetoed my wearing a dark suit, and went home, bustling, for my new lilac wool.

I dressed too plainly, she told me, in a scolding manner that I knew meant only that she loved me, and that she didn't want to see me hurt.

As we left the house together, we saw Benny Bell sitting on the front steps of the veranda. Aunt Bean was all for Keyes stopping the car. "I'll tell that boy a thing or two!"

Keyes and Lovey protested, and I agreed with them. "He's only annoying," I told Aunt Bean. "If we ignore him—"

"I think the boy is crazy," said Aunt Bean. "He must be, to do the things he does. This morning when I came over, he was stretched out flat on the grass. Wet as it was! And if he is crazy, he's dangerous, Jannie!"

I looked back at the boy, who put his thumbs in his ears, and wagged his fingers at me. Benny was crazy!

Now she was agitated as I when the same policeman came through the gate with a message for me. I braced myself against the wild idea that Dick Hinton would want me to come up to that table. I would not go!

"Miss Osborne," the policeman was saying to me, his own face anxious. "Dr. Howdershell said to tell you that he doesn't think his daughter should be here in the courtroom."

I felt Lovey stiffen, and I sensed the way she turned to me, her eyes dark with protest. I patted her hand.

"Will you please tell Dr. Howdershell," I said firmly — I was proud of my calm — "that I feel his daughter has a right to be here. She is 16, and under the circumstances she should be treated like an adult, and trusted."

He went away from us, and Lovey squeezed my hand. I was looking at Smokey; the policeman was bent over him, talking earnestly.

Smokey listened, nodded, said

"Thank you" to the uniformed man — I could read that much from his lips. Then turned about in his chair and smiled at us. At me.

Everyone in the courtroom saw him do it. From all over the room. I could feel the pinpricks of their interest, their curiosity, their speculation. I didn't care. Everything was all right! Smokey knew it, and so I knew it, too!

I smiled, and blinked the tears from my eyelashes, so emotionally upset I almost missed the opening of the hearing. Lovey had to tug at my arm to make me rise to my feet when Judge Bruton entered. And she must tug at it again to make me sit down.

She leaned forward to look at me in concern. I smiled at her, and nodded. I was all right—I would be.

I watched the skilled way in which Judge Bruton handled the skirts of his robe as he sat down. I listened to the little clerk say, in a surprisingly large voice, "... Circuit Court ... District ... State of Missouri now in session. Judge Robert A. Bruton presiding ... Case of S.M.K. Howdershell, MD." He lingered over the title. "David Ostenfeld for the prosecution, Richard Hinton, attorney for the defense."

Has Praise for City's Street Plan

Editor's Note: The following letter was written to Mayor Frank Douglas and deals with various city improvements. The City of Hope now has a program pending to repair city streets. The letter deals with this project and is published by permission of the writer.)

Honorable Frank Douglas
Hope, Arkansas

Dear Mayor Douglas:

Congratulations to you and your fellow workers as members of the Board of Directors of the City; - for the fine job you are doing.

We, on the side lines and as taxpayers, realize that this is a time-consuming job and one that takes lots of thought and study; but we are all glad that we have an honest and progressive Board; and one that is trying to do something for the community. The only pay you get is the satisfaction that you are serving the people where you live and make your living - oftentimes working till the late hours many nights. You do get lots of criticism - some constructive - but most just "gripes."

It is noted in the press that the Board has now proposed a city-wide street improvement program which, of course, will cost money but is badly needed. We never get anything that doesn't cost somebody something, and I have learned long ago that you get what you pay for. We can have bad streets which soon will be none at all and go backward, or we can have good streets and be a progressive community. Streets are one of the first things seen by any new resident. You can't go anywhere or any place without going over the streets.

In my opinion this project now proposed is one of the best that we have ever had in Hope for the best interests of everyone.

The first of its kind was about fifty years ago when we formed a water and sewer improvement district, and it did improve, as we did away with outside toilets.

These younger folks can't remember back that far, but who would want to have it back like it used to be?

The next major improvement was the forming of the street improvement district wherein the downtown district was paved.

The next project, in which the whole county was involved, was in moving the courthouse to Hope, in which Hope had to provide a location; — this the city did by buying from the school district the location of the present courthouse.

Yes, this all cost money but is worth it and who among us would have it otherwise.

Now this latter improvement of the streets, curbs and gutters is going to take the wholehearted support of everybody who wants to see progress I trust, we will haven't.

Yours Respectfully,
Roy Anderson

TH Law Does Not Ban Shop Agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today the Taft-Hartley Law does not ban agency shop agreements, but in a separate decision upheld Florida's prohibition of agency shop contracts.

Both decisions were 8-0. Justice Goldberg, a former secretary of labor, did not take part.

Under agency shop agreements, non-union members must pay to unions the equivalent of fees and dues paid by members.

Many unions have pressed for such agreements in states which have so-called right-to-work laws, forbidding a requirement for union membership as a condition of employment.

The two cases in the Supreme Court's decision today were: 1. A case from Indiana in which the United Auto Workers was seeking from General Motors Corp. an agency shop agreement for workers in Indiana.

Indiana has a form of right-to-work law, but state courts ruled the state statute did not forbid the agency shop. General Motors contended it was barred under the national labor law, the Taft-Hartley Act. The Supreme Court said it is not.

2. A case from Florida involving local 1625 of the AFL-CIO Retail Clerks. The local had an agreement with Food Fair, Inc., stores at Miami, but a group of non-union employees balked at paying fees to the union.

Florida's Supreme Court decided such an agency shop arrangement was illegal under the state's right-to-work law.

The Supreme Court ruled the Florida ban on agency shop contracts is permissible under Taft Hartley.

But at the same time the court, in an opinion by Justice White, said it was not deciding whether Florida's courts, or only the National Labor Relations Board, has authority to enforce the state's ban against such contracts.

The high court called for argument on the latter point in its

Highways Are Big Business in Arkansas

By WICK TEMPLE

Associated Press Staff Writer

Once a month 100 men gather in a building behind the state Capitol to seat and scribble down figures as they are read over a loudspeaker.

The men are road builders, the building is the Highway Department, and the figures are the monthly highway bids.

It's all part of Arkansas' biggest business—highway construction.

In fiscal 1961 and 1962, the state spent $104,465,255, including federal funds, for construction of highways in Arkansas, the Highway Commission's statistical record shows.

The money went to dozens of contractors, subcontractors, material suppliers and equipment dealers, and eventually it went back to the people.

The building of highways, although it is controlled by the state, is one of the most competitive businesses. When the bids are read contractors moan audibly or even shout.

Wednesday bids were read on $6.1 million in project. When one project came up, a heavy-set, room and scribbled frantically on room ad scribbled frantically on his billfold while looking over newsmen's shoulders to check his figures.

When Eugene Nelson, office engineer, said, "That's all the bids on that project," the heavy-set man rushed out. No one knew whether he had been successful.

Not all the men who crowd into the hearing room are contractors. May sell equipment and material. They want to see who gets the bids so they'll know who to approach for a sale.

On bidding on one interstate highway project Wednesday, the pressure was as thick as the cigar smoke. Dixie Contract Co. of Memphis was low with a bid of $1,033,889. Then Nelson read the last bid—a combined offer by W. K. Ingram of West Memphis and Miceys Inc. of Warren.

It was $1,033,478—low by a scant $411.

The room exploded in noise and the radio announcer broadcasting the bids over a Little Rock station had to shout his commercial.

The contractors must prepare their bids with extreme care to get as low as possible and still preserve their profit margin. Occasionally, someone will "leave the money on the table." That is, they will underbid everyone else by a wide margin and kick themselves later because they could have had the job at a much higher bid.

Coark Construction Co. of North Little Rock underbid on a Baxter County job Wednesday by $4,618. In contractors' parlance, that money was "left on the table."

The Highway Commission has a list of approved bidders—financially sound firms with the background and potential to do the job. They mail copies of projects to the firms three weeks before the bidding date. All specifications new term beginning next fall. It asked the NLRB to give its views at the time of the new argument.

Fire Death Pushes State Toll to 21

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A traffic fatality and a death in a fire Sunday pushed the state's violent death toll to 21 for the week ended midnight Sunday.

Francis Marie Snyder, 34, a native of El Dorado, died early Sunday in a fire at her apartment in the rear of a building in Little Rock.

District Fire Chief Melvin White, the Little Rock fire marshal, said the fire apparently started from a lighted cigarette in a downstairs apartment where Eddie Jones, 31, was asleep.

Jones was found unconscious and was revived by firemen. He suffered burns on his left arm, hand and shoulder and was hospitalized.

Edmond Robertson, 49, of Paterson, died early Sunday of injuries suffered when the car he was driving ran off state Highway 17 about five miles south of McCrory Saturday night. He was along in the car.

Also during the week, nine other persons died in traffic accidents, two drowned, one was killed when a tractor overturned on him, two others died in fires, one was killed in a fall, one was accidentally electrocuted, one was stabbed to death, one was shot to death and one was killed in a construction accident.

When a contractor gets the job, he must be bonded. In a few instances, contractors have underbid and gone broke, and the bonding company has had to finish the job.

The bidding varies with the amount of work being done in the state. If there is an upswing in the economy and contractors are usually busy, the bids all run high. If contractors are cooling their heels for lack of work, the bids are extra low.

Last November the commission took no bids because it said the contractors were loaded with jobs and it wanted to give them a chance to catch up. Some protested. But the commission knew that the bids at such a time would be very high.

The commission isn't bound to accept the bids. It can readvertise if they are too high. One bid was rejected Wednesday.

The biggest boon in the history of the construction business is the federal interstate highway program. It will run 41,000 miles across the nation and Arkansas' 520 miles will cost more than $500 million.

The cost of the nationwide project runs about $1 million a mile. It's the biggest engineering program in history.

Pound and Dollar Are Stabilized

WASHINGTON (AP)—A reciprocal currency arrangement between the Federal Reserve Board and the Bank of England to maintain stability of the dollar and pound has been raised from $50 million to $500 million, it was announced today.

The arrangement, one of a number this country has with other nations, is one means of keeping stable the U.S. dollar and other currencies.

The board's Open Market Committee, announcing the increase, said it "reflects the desirability of enlarging the facilities for dealing with temporary and reversible flows of funds between the two largest centers of world finance."

In effect, the arrangement permits this country to borrow up to $500 million worth of British pounds—or the British to borrow a like amount of U.S. dollars—for short-term periods when they are needed to stabilize the currencies.

The announcement said the system "provides a major reinforcement of the world payments system and of international liquidity by increasing the availability of foreign exchange in case of need."

A spokesman said there was no urgency about the increase. He noted the original U.S.-British agreement a year ago on a $50-million fund was one of the first and that similar agreements made since with other countries have involved greater amounts.

He said the increase brings the U.S. British arrangement more in line with those made since with other countries.

Jones Can't Believe He Won It

By DALE BURGESS

Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (A)—Parnelli Jones sat in his Agajanian Willard Special and kept repeating:

"I just can't believe it. I just can't believe it."

The 29-year-old Torrance, Calif., driver moved like a man in a dream after his record victory in the rich Indianapolis 500-mile Memorial Day Classic.

"I just can't get it into my head," Jones said softly into the confusion of the victory celebration around him.

J. C. Agajanian, the car owner, kissed him. Agajanian's wife kissed him. His own wife kissed him.

"You won the race, Rufus," Agajanian shouted to the man who was born Rufus Parnelli Jones. "You're the greatest."

Jones, who had won the pole position for the second straight year, was favored in the race, but had to drive his heart out to beat Scotsman Jimmy Clark in a rear-engine Lotus-Ford.

Clark was one of those who complained after the race that Jones was spitting oil onto the track just before he took the winner's checkered flag.

However, Chief Steward Harlan Fongler refused to wave Jones into the pits.

"You can't take this race away from a man on snap judgment," said Fongler, who also noted that other cars were throwing oil.

No official protest can be filed until race officials meet this morning, but as one veteran of the race remarked, complaints are a tradition the night after the race but "after a night's sleep they're usually forgotten."

Clark, No. 2 in world road racing standings last year, and Dan Gurney, another Grand Prix racer from Costa Mesa, Calif., ran 2-3 behind Jones through the late stages of the race.

After charging his hardest for 3½ hours, Jones crossed the finish line a tick under 34 seconds ahead of Clark.

Jones won't know how much he won until the Indianapolis Motor Speedway cuts up a purse of possibly one-half million dollars at tonight's victory dinner. He knows he won $25,000 in lap prize money for leading 167 of the race's 200 laps. The front runner gets $150 a lap in addition to the main prizes.

The soft-spoken king of the country's sprint tracks, also knows that he had to break the track record by almost three miles per hour to win. He averaged 143.137 m.p.h. in spite of wrecks that forced the field to run under the yellow "hold-your-position" light for almost 50 minutes. Clark averaged 142.752 m.p.h.

The first five finishers broke the old record.

Nobody was hurt seriously in a series of crashes. Veteran Eddie Johnson, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, suffered a twisted foot and a back injury when he crashed into the wall on the northeast turn.

Others who banged into the wall included Eddie Sachs, Detroit; rookie Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M.; Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex.; and Bud Tingelstad, Dayton, Ohio.

A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., finished highest of four former winners in the race. He was third. Rodger Ward of Indianapolis, last year's winner, was fourth. Troy Ruttman, Dearborn, Mich., who started last in 33rd place, was 12th, and Jim Rathmann, Melbourne, Fla., was stopped by fuel trouble.

arrangements to 1.55 billion.

In addition to that with the British, this country has such arrangements with the national banks of France, Switzerland, Canada, Germany, Italy, Austria and Sweden, and the Bank for International Settlements.

He said the increase brings the U.S. British arrangement more in line with those made since with other countries.

Johnson Is Wanting a Return Fight

By BOB MYERS

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Hollering he was robbed, Pat Olivieri manager of Harold Johnson, today demanded a rematch for his dethroned light heavyweight champion with Willie Pastrano.

Pastrano, a 1-to-5 underdog, won the championship Saturday night in the boxing upset of the year with a split 15-round decision over Johnson. The fight was nationally televised from the Las Vegas Convention Center.

"I'm not saying that the underdog dictated the decision," said the silver-haired Olivieri. "But the betting was 5-1 and 6-1 for my boy and they let the underdog win. What do you think?"

There was no verbal or written rematch agreement, Pastrano's manager, Angelo Dundee, said. Olivieri said he would ask Emile Bruneau, chairman of the World Boxing Association championship committee, to give Johnson a rematch with 90 days.

Referee Jimmy Olivas scored the fight 69-68 and judge Harry Krause 69-67, both for Pastrano. Judge John-Romero had it 69-68 for Johnson. The Associated Press had it 70-69 for Pastrano.

It was '75 that Pastrano wouldn't last the route against the 34-year-old champion from Philadelphia who had not been whipped in almost eight years.

But Pastrano outboxed and outfoxed Johnson in a fight that was far better than many anticipated. There were no knockdowns, but Johnson nailed Willie with right smashes in the fifth and 13th rounds that made his knees sag.

Johnson received $37,000 and Pastrano $21,250, the largest purse of his 13-year career. Pastrano weighed 174, Johnson 173½.

SHE STILL DREAMS OF HIM
By HELEN WORDEN SKINE

Dear Helen: I am happily married yet still dream of my first love. It's been 12 years since we dated (I was in high school) and went steady. I loved him and the feeling was mutual.

We talked of marriage and our future together, though it was only talk for I entered college and he joined the Navy. I dated others, but still cherished his picture and, at intervals, inquired where he was and what doing.

Eventually I fell in love with another boy. We married, have a fine son and nice home. Truthfully, I never think about the old beau but what puzzles me is why I still dream of him. I'm not the kind to believe in dreams or even take them seriously. Yet this recurrent dream of the first love has me worried. Have you an answer—The Dreamer.

Dear Dreamer: Odd though it may seem, it is entirely natural and normal for a happily married woman to dream romantically of another man. He may be someone she knows, or has known in the past a movie idol, or even a prominent figure in public life. I'm quite sure there are few women who haven't spent a night, or part of one, dreaming of some glamorous creature who bears little resemblance to their husbands. Frequent and vivid as such fantasies may be, they do not affect the dreamers' loyalty. Undoubtedly, your old beau is just as happily married as you are and has several children.

Remember he is not the youthful figure you dated in high school. In fact, you might wonder what in heaven's name you ever saw in him should your paths cross today.

Your dreams are probably expressing a longing for your high school days.

Dear Helen: I am a housewife with a 4-year-old son and a daughter, 8. Beside the cash needed to put the boy in nursery school, I need somebody to care for our little girl if I take a promised full-time job. Part-time work won't solve the financial problem. Any suggestions—Baffled.

Dear Baffled: There are many day nurseries for children of working mothers which charge nominal fees. Some are run by churches and some by community welfare agencies. Investigate such possibilities in your area, and also study the classified section of this newspaper.

Although you evidently have a regular nursery school available for your 4-year-old, I merely suggest these other arrangements as being less costly. If your daughter is 8 I assume she is in school until mid-afternoon. Why can't you arrange for a responsible high school girl to come right to your house after school every afternoon for a few hours until you return. Query the guidance office of your high school. With summer vacation looming up there will be many girls looking for jobs like this.

Dear Helen: My mother beams the fact I'm dateless yet to a great extent it's her fault. Most of the girls in my age group started dating at 14 and had fun. They got invited to all the important dance and ball games. Not being allowed to go out at that age, I sat home watching TV. Now, at 16, everybody has a date for the Prom but me. If parents want their daughters to be popular, they'd better untie those apron strings.—Left Out of Everything

Dear Left Out: I'm all for a girl dating, even at 14, provided it is in her own home, with her crowd (never solo) and under the supervision of her parents. In fact, I regard it as the parents' duty (particularly the mother) to see that a teen daughter's social life doesn't die on the vine. It's not too late for your mother to start now. How about organizing a record hop, backyard picnic or class party for you the week school closes. Ask her and, if need moral support, show your letter and my reply.

Have you a problem Perhaps Helen Worden Skine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped

Ex-Official to Undergo Surgery

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - Harry H. Woodring, former U.S. secretary of war, undergoes surgery today for a fractured hip, suffered when he was beaten and robbed.

Woodring, who is 73 today, was attacked Wednesday by a pair of thugs he had hired to mow the lawn of his Topeka home. Hospital officials said that except for the hip injury he is in satisfactory condition.

Woodring, a Democrat, was governor of Kansas in 1931-32 and secretary of war from 1936 to 1940.

SOCIAL SECURITY

QUESTION: I have been laid off from my job and want to apply for unemployment compensation, but friends have told me that if I draw Unemployment Compensation payments that this will reduce the amount of my social security benefit when I retire. Is this true? Mr. D. B.

ANSWER: No, it is not. First, of all separate contributions are made by your employer to the state unemployment compensation fund. This fund is administered by the states and is separate from retirement, survivors, and disability benefits - commonly called, "Social Security."

QUESTION: I have a maid who works half a day on two days each week. I pay her two dollars each half day or a total of $4.00 each week without fail. My maid says that she doesn't want me to hold out for social security on her wages. She says the choice is up to her. Is it?

ANSWER: At $4.00 per week you pay your maid $52.00 each quarter. (January through March is the first quarter). If you pay a maid as much as $50.00 in cash wages in any quarter you must pay social security taxes and make a report of these wages to Internal Revenue. There is no choice in the matter. If you wish you may pay both portions of the tax due - but it must be reported.

Law on Right to Work Is Controversial

By WICK TEMPLE

Associated Press Staff Writer

The most controversial rule in Arkansas' industrialization process is the right to work law.

Unions bitterly oppose it. Employers and chambers of commerce are for it. And a third force in labor relations—the state government—considers it innocuous.

The law forbids union shops or agency shops in which non-union workers must pay the equivalent of dues to the union. It also says union membership must not be a requisite for getting a job or holding one.

George Ellison, state president of the AFL-CIO, says the law keeps Arkansas workers from gaining advantages held in other states because it weakens unions and hampers collective bargaining. For this reason he calls it the "right-to-be-worked law."

Frank Cantrell, executive vice president of the state Chamber of Commerce, defends the measure. He says it allows workers freedom of choice.

State Labor Commissioner Bill Laney, a former CIO organizer, says he does not think the law hampers union progress and that he does not know of a single case in which it helped defeat a union.

But Ellison says its very presence precludes strong union activity. Without a union shop, he says, the union cannot present a solid front to back up wage and condition demands.

Of the 20 states that now have right to work laws, only Nevada is keeping pace with the rest of the nation, Ellison said.

Arkansas was the first state to pass such legislation—in 1944. A companion law, the 1943 anti-violence act, outlaws strike violence.

"We're going to keep working for repeal of the right to work law," said Ellison. He thinks it eventually will be repealed.

Cantrell says the law has not inhibited union growth and development. "A man ought not have to pay tribute to anyone," he said. "Saying you must belong to a union is like saying you must be a member of a certain church to work in a plant."

Laney, who was appointed labor commissioner by Gov. Orval Faubus May 1 after serving as assistant commissioner for eight years, has this attitude about the law:

Hope Baseball Program Needs Help

For the first of a series of articles recognizing the Recreational activities and facilities for the City of Hope, the baseball program would be an appropriate one since all of the local Leagues will open play during June.

The program, which began in 1953 with a six-team Little League and a four-team Big League, has grown to include a six team Little League, a four-team Doctors League, a four-team Babe Ruth League, and a Jr. Legion team. These teams play approximately 120 games per season on three lighted Baseball Fields and provide recreation for over 300 boys.

Each team is completely uniformed and equipped by the team sponsors, whose name appears on the back of each player's uniform with the exception of the Doctor's League, sponsored by the local

Travelers Lose Pair to Syracuse

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Travelers dropped a baseball doubleheader to Syracuse
Sunday, 7-3 and 10-5, and fell 7½ games behind Atlanta for first place in the Southern Division of the International League.

In other games Sunday, Atlanta swept a twin bill from Toronto 4-1 and 3-1, Indianapolis split with Buffalo, winning 6-1 and losing 2-1, Rochester tripped Jacksonville 4-3 and the Columbus - Richmond game was postponed because of rain.

Purnal Goldy clouted a home run in each game for Syracuse, and George Smith hit one in the first game for the Chiefs while Gates Brown homered in the second game.

Richie Allen socked two homers in the first game for Arkansas and John Herrnshtein hit one in the second game.

The Travelers take on Toronto in Little Rock tonight.
Atlanta is sweeping every doubleheader in sight and running away with the Southern Division lead, but Syracuse is pressing Buffalo for the top spot in the Northern Division.

Atlanta whipped Toronto Sunday for its fifth straight doubleheader sweep and lengthened its division lead to six games over the Indianapolis Indians. Syracuse cut Buffalo's lead to a game and a half ing a lot of the time to provide a prospective player from seven through 18 years of age.

Willie Homers 3 Times, Lifts Giants to Win

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who said the Giants were carrying Willie Mays as a "glove man?"

Wonderful Willie made a liar of his .254 batting average Sunday when he hit three home runs in San Francisco's 6-4 victory over the menacing St. Louis Cardinals.
Mays gave signs of awakening from his spring snooze when he busted a two-run homer off loser
Ernie Broglio in the first inning.
He followed with No. 9 and No. 10
in the eighth and ninth.

The Giants' victory snapped a five-game Cardinal winning streak and dropped the Cards two full games off the San Francisco pace.
Cincinnati dropped Los Angeles 3½ games back of the Giants by scoring five unearned runs with the help of two Dodger errors in a 5-2 decision. It was the Dodgers' fourth straight defeat.

Houston put together four successive singles in the 17th inning to win the longest game of the year, a 4-hour-46-minute struggle with Milwaukee, 3-1. Carl Warwick, Rusty Staub, Jim Campbell and Al Spangler contributed the singles that gave Hal Woodeshick
the nod over Ron Piche.

The Phillies divided a pair with Chicago. Cal McLish won his fifth straight for the Phils in the opener, 3-2 with the aid of Jim Lem-by sweeping Arkansas.

Two homers by veteran Joe Christopher gave Buffalo the verdict over Indianapolis in the nightcap after the Indians had won the opener 6-2.

Right-handed Bob Sadowski (8-1) and Harry Fanok (1-0) pitched complete games for the Atlanta sweep. Toronto would have suffered a 16-inning drought except for a home run in the opener by Frank Leja and one in the second game by Neil Chrissy.

An eighth-innings single by second baseman Ron Kabbes drove in the winning run for Rochester.
